MORGAN COUNTY.

Grassy Creek Girls.

I will first offer my excuse for my long absence from this HERALD. I have been sick ever since last December, and a great portion of the time confined to my bed, but through the mercies of an all-wise Creator I am once more able to be out, but not well. I hope I will be able to work for THE HERALD, for I am satisfied it has done more for the mountains of Kentucky than any other paper, therefore I think the people of this section should patronize it, which I intend to try to induce them to do if my health will admit.

I wish to state in your valuable paper for the benefit of the sick that I have been using a mineral water that has done me more good than all the medicine I could get. This water seems to get on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach. It can be found on the farm of Mr. Claypool, two and one-half miles from Maytown, Ky., and is free for everybody who wants to use it. There is no question but what it possesses some great medicinal qualities.

The stock of goods at this place, belonging to Wm. Tolliver, was sold last Saturday to the highest bidder. S. E. Hays was the purchaser, and sold them the same day to Goodpastor & Stamper, who will commence selling goods at once in the house recently occupied by Tolliver.

Rev. Leander Lyle will commence a protracted meeting at the church house, near James R. Rose's, on Friday, before the first Sunday in August and will continue until Sunday, at which time Rev. H. H. Little will be with him to preach the funeral of Mrs. W. H. Warren.

K. H. Murphy, Cyrus B. Perry, Wm. Yonem and J. F. Havens, all of this creek, have bought an Antism-Tyler threshing machine, and will be ready for threshing in a short time.

Rev. H. H. Little preached at the Murphy school house on last Saturday and Sunday. There was a large attendance, and five were received by baptism.

Crops are looking well in this neighborhood. Farmers are principally done plowing, and are cutting their grass, which is an average crop.

The two stores at this place were locked up some time ago by the Sheriff for debt, and just when they will be opened I am not able to tell.

There has been so much changing of property at this place since I have been sick that I will not attempt to give the names.

Miss Louisa Murphy will commence school at the Murphy school house this morning, and Joseph Stamper will commence at this place.

July 13. ON THE WING.

West Liberty Wags.

As we were on our way to the store, we saw in front of Maxey & Kendall's store quite an amount of blood, and later we learned that boys, not gentlemen, had been up late at night and had gotten into a row and cut with knives. There were also some drunken parties on the street at the same hour, and the conduct of the boys had been bad enough from the rumor. What kind of officers have we? What kind of trustees? What will become of our town if matters continue longer?

The Morgan County Messenger did not appear last week, but he will be here this week. Non-arrival of paper the cause. The editors of this paper are trying very hard to get subscribers, and managing to catch interest in their work. May they prosper.

The Methodist Conference convened at this place last Friday and adjourned Sunday. A small attendance, but much interest manifested.

I hear several talking against the would-be new Constitution. We doubt if there is a majority in this section for it.

July 13. ELITE.

Maytown Misses.

The citizens of this town and vicinity have taken steps in the right direction preparatory for the Hazel Green Fair by organizing the Maytown Training association, with Mr. Stephen Swango president, and C. W. Clark secretary. A committee of five was appointed by the president to make the location and secure the same, and report at the next meeting.

Mr. Sinclair, of New York, traveling salesman for Dr. C. Ayer & Co., spent Saturday and Sunday in town.

Miss Sabina Taulbee, of your town, paid Miss Lacey Sample a pleasant visit Sunday. Died, last week, infant child of A. C. and Rebecca Swango.

Mrs. W. W. Swango is quite sick.

July 13. WINGLESS.

Public Speaking.

Campton, Wolfe co., Friday July 31. Hazel Green, Saturday August 1.

The ladies are especially invited to be present. Speaking promptly at 1 o'clock P. M. each day.

An Important Correction.

Through a piece of gross carelessness the card of P. R. Phillips, in our Fair catalogue reads, "with J. M. Robinson & Co., of Lexington, Ky." The correct name is "Brooks & Co." We hope all interested will note the correction, and make due allowance for a rush of work night and day for a month past.

PROFIT LODGE, F. & L. U.

Tribute of Respect to Nannie E. Hampton.

At a called meeting of Profit Lodge, No. 962, F. & L. U., held June 27, 1891, for the purpose of paying the last respects to Nannie E. Hampton, who died June 24, 1891. Her remains were laid to rest in the old church yard on Grassy Creek.

The following committee was appointed, Jerry Profit, A. F. Johnson and Jas. Buchanan, who reported the following, which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our heavenly father in his wisdom to call from labor on earth to the realms of everlasting refreshments on high, our beloved sister, Nannie E. Hampton, be it resolved,

1. That we drop the tear of sympathy over the grave of our departed sister. We tender our fervent condolence to the grief-stricken family in this their darkest hour of bereavement.

2. That in the death of our sister the F. & L. U. has lost a faithful and worthy member, the community an honorable and useful citizen, and her family a devoted and loving wife and mother.

3. That these resolutions be published in the HAZEL GREEN HERALD and a copy be sent to Thomas Hampton, the husband of the deceased, and all other papers friendly to the organization.

Cure of Ointments for Catarrh Throat.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them.

And Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made at Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

The more the new Constitution is discussed the more it is caused.

If any man can see his way clear to vote for the new Constitution, amen say we; but our eyesight is not good enough to see that way.

How will the poor housewife like to see her chickens running about the yard with tax-tags attached? The new Constitution taxes poultry.

The new Constitution is a matter of vast interest to the people of this section, as its adoption will deter, if not destroy, all prospects for development.

Will the poor woman who has toiled and saved to buy her sewing machine, and hurry the men of her household out to vote for an instrument that imposes a tax upon that useful article?

We wish to go on record as being against the new Constitution for the very reason that THE HERALD is for the people and believes the new Constitution to be against their interests.

The new Constitution makes the Secretary of State an elective office. In event of a Republican Secretary and a Democratic Governor, or vice versa, we would have a nice kettle of fish, wouldn't we?

Will some one arise and tell the people what corporation or what bank is opposing the new Constitution? Ever and anon we hear it asserted that the bank oppose it, but the evidence is not point that way.

Under the old Constitution the poor man has property exempt to the value of $750, besides pigs and poultry. Under the new one only $250 is exempt, and he pays tax on both pork and poultry. Is it hard to see how he'll vote? Not very!

We wish week make room for the expressions of a few of the best papers in the State on the new Constitution, and could fill our paper with like expressions from the leading journals. They scent danger to the people and warn them against it.

Under Sec. 227 of the new Constitution the Railroad Commissioner may relieve railroads from the operations of that section, and it might have done as much for the farmer by allowing the Commissioner of Agriculture to relieve him from the provisions of Sec. 176. But it doesn't all the same.

A prominent Alliance man in this county has 30,000 acres of mineral and timber lands contracted, but the parties wrote to him that they would not buy at any price if the new Constitution were adopted. And this is an instance of what may be expected should that instrument become the organic law.

None of the advocates of the new Constitution would have the people believe that all who oppose the adoption of that instrument are born fools. They remind us of the lunatic who on the way to the asylum pointed out a crowd and said to his guards, "Did you ever see so many crazy people together before?" We hope this will need no diagram.

Col. Robert W. Woolley, of Louisville, says of the new Constitution: "If there were an open clause in that instrument by which the people could correct its errors as fast as they may be discovered the proposed Constitution should receive a most careful consideration, but the 'open clause' it contains is a closed clause, and is a sham and a delusion."

Hon. John G. Carlisle, than whom there is not a brainer or more brilliant man in this or any other State, opposes the adoption of the new Constitution. In a recent letter to Hon. J. Stoddard Johnston, he says: "In my opinion it would be a great mistake to adopt the proposed Constitution as it now stands," and to Judge Menies, of Covington, he said: "Its adoption would prove a serious injury to Kentucky."

Hon. Leslie T. Applegate, Delegate to the Constitutional Convention from Pendleton county, is opposed to the adoption of the new Constitution and is making speeches against it. He is for the present Constitution with an open clause, and thinks if the new one is defeated that the old one may be thus amended. In the language of the Courier-Journal, uttered only recently, "Let us cling to the old Constitution."

CONSTITUTION CLIPPINGS.

It is Against Farmers.

The advocates of the new Constitution claim that it is the farmer's and poor man's Constitution. Now, let's see if it is. Take the question of taxes. Under the old Constitution the following property is exempt from taxation: Fifty dollars' worth of cattle, provisions for the family for one year, your poultry, your growing crops, $250 worth of household goods, $250 worth of farming implements, $50 worth of sewing or knitting machines, all articles made by family for family use, and all your books.

Under the new Constitution the Assessor will list everything you have, from your newly hatched chicken to your reaping machine—including your garden and all growing crops. After having listed everything on your premises he deducts $250 and you pay taxes on the remainder. Yet Dr. Hampton and others call it the "poor man's Constitution."—Milton Free Press.

Poor Men Should Read It.

Every poor man should remember that under the present law his cow, his pig, his chickens, his plow, his hoe, his wagon, his harness, his bed, his bedding, his provisions for a year, his family bible, his sewing machine, his rag carpets and several other things are exempt from tax-gatherers, while under the new Constitution everything will have to be put in except $250 worth. If you want proof of this read Section 176 of the new Constitution, and then borrow a copy of General Statutes, or if you can't do that call at the County Clerk's office and ask him to let you see one of those yellow tax-bills. Don't say by and by you want to see what you are about. If you make a mistake it will be too late to kick after the thing is done.—Catieltburg Democrat.

Won't You Go to It.

A friend of ours said to us a few days ago that there were many things in the new Constitution he did not like, but that there were some good things in it. He liked, and he thought he would vote for it. This reminds us of the rats that stand around the trap and look at the good corn lying within, and for the good they hope to get out of the corn they make up their minds to go in, and when they find the corn gone and the wire door down, they squeal and rush against the wire that hold them until death comes. All who wish to can go in, but for us we shall choose to stay on the outside.—Carlisle Mercury.

It Increases Courts and Costs.

The London Mountain Echo gives as one reason for failing to accept the new Constitution that it reduces the number of courts. There are now twenty-nine court districts, including all Circuit, Common Pleas, Chancery and Criminal courts. The new Constitution provides for circuits not to exceed one for every 60,000 of population. Kentucky's population is 1,900,000. That authorizes thirty-three districts, an increase of four and that number will be required in order to make the mountain districts small enough to allow three terms of court every year.—Courier-Journal.

They Will Have Much to Regret.

It is our judgment that the new Constitution will entail much upon the State that the people will regret. On that point the Courier-Journal has spoken in no uncertain tones. It has pointed out its objections with specification. Questioning the motive of none, giving the most ample and candid testimony to the intelligence and disinterestedness of gentlemen favoring the new Constitution, it has claimed the same right to have its motive, in taking an opposite view, respected.—Clinton Democrat.

A Humbug and a Fraud.

It may be accepted by the people, and its inequities may be voted good; nevertheless even popular endorsement can not keep it from being a humbug and a fraud. As the movement who goes to the polls in August and votes the straight ticket, and then records himself as against the new Constitution, will not only have performed a service to his party, but he will have entered his name in the list of those who are opposed to unequal taxation and despotic laws.—Williamstown Public Opinion.

A Very Serious Objection.

If the new Constitution is adopted, mine owners will have to submit to any changes that the railroads may choose to make for marketing their coal; by the Constitution they are restrained from building and operating roads for themselves.—Middleboro Herald.

Has ample facilities for doing a general banking business. Solicits deposits, makes collections, gives prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to it, and extends to its customers the most liberal accommodations consistent with correct banking business.

Bankers Don't Fight It.

Has any man heard of a railroad official, or a banker, going out to make speeches against the adoption of the new Constitution? But we do find a great many railroad attorneys, some of whom were members of this convention, who are very much interested in securing its adoption. This is a significant fact and one worthy of the consideration of the people. Lawyers are not apt to neglect the interest of their best clients upon whom they rely for support.—Catieltburg Democrat.

Not for Our Best Interests.

We are opposed to the adoption of the new Constitution because we do not believe it is for the best interests of the people, and not because the Courier-Journal, or Mr. Brown, or somebody else is for or against it. It is an easy matter for Mr. Brown to announce that he will vote for it, because his opponent, Mr. Wood, the Republican nominee, is for it, thus eliminating the question from the canvass.—Richmond Climax.

Time For Action.

The time for discussion is merging in the time for action. It is right that the dangers to Kentucky's progress should be pointed out and the good work should not cease. But the time for perfecting organized opposition is here; the way to the polls should be plainly marked, and votes cast against the proposed Constitution from the opening to the close.—Covington Commonwealth.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

ALLIANCE NOTES.

The so-called democracy that derides the poor and runs under the wing of plutocrats, is the kind the people are after with a steel pointed prod.—Exchange.

The N. Y. World very frankly and emphatically says that the work of the Cincinnati conference may well "alarm republicans," and make the "democrats decidedly uneasy."

The state meeting of the Missouri F. & L. U. will be held at Warrensburg August 24. State officers will be elected. Send to that meeting delegates in whom all true alliance men have perfect confidence and the work is half done.—Exchange.

The appearance of over-production is really due to the inability of the people to buy, and their inability to buy is the result of excessive scarcity of money, produced by corporate greed and contraction of the circulating medium of the country through the medium of so-called law.—Southern Mercury.

In 1872, silver being demonetized in France, England and Holland, a capital of $500,000 was raised and Ernest Seyd of London, was sent to this country with this fund as agent of the foreign bondholders and capitalists, to effect the same object—the demonetization of silver, which was accomplished.

—Hart's Magazine for August, 1872.

It is held by some political economists that all currency must be issued upon some value as a basis. Those who are fortunate enough to possess the value selected as a basis will not only enjoy the benefits that accrue from the increase, but they will derive an additional benefit by reason of the value of their product in this way as a basis.

Our government does not consult the people as to what their interests are. It consults national bankers and other capitalists who instead of studying how to make money plenty and every day so control the situation as to produce the opposite effect, is ours a government of the people, by the people and for the people?—Kolomo (Ind., Industrial Union).

We are sorely afflicted by our enemies—many of our legislators are rich when we speak of the poverty in the land. Well the millionaire list gives the lie to that, for money has been legislated into their pockets by the alliance. That is why the government has been doing for the past thirty years. It has been legislating one class rich and the other class poor.—Alliance Vindicator.

In the Wisconsin Farmers' Alliance convention the committee on consolidation reported in favor of the Wisconsin branch becoming a member of the National Alliance and suggested that the alliance be organized in the local branches for action. The Cincinnati platform was indorsed and a resolution adopted looking to the amalgamation with the Knights of Labor to establish a third party in the state.

The ridicule with which the old party press is so lavish has, in every instance, directly the opposite effect from that which is intended. Human nature invariably revolts against it, as it does against contempt, insult, and the people are satisfied that the parties do not resort to it because, in their judgment, it is the best policy to pursue, but because they have nothing better to offer.—Advocate.

The republicans in the north are very much troubled because the alliance is going into politics. They beg them to stay in the republican party, thus admitting that it is only a certain kind of politics they object to. The democrats in the south moan over the alliance being in politics and they ask why won't you stay inside the democratic party, thus showing it is only a certain kind of politics they object to.—Alliance Vindicator.

Talk about the alliance and democratic platforms being one and the same thing. They favor about as much as John and his grandmother and are about as well suited for companions. The fact is they antagonize each other at every point. There is nothing on our platform that the democrats would touch with a ten-foot pole but the tariff question, and we are not afraid to say so. Do they or are they likely ever to indorse our views on land transportation and finance? When the stars cease to twinkle and the great king of day withholds his yellow light from the world, the beautiful earth of ours we may confidently hope to see a union of the alliance and democratic parties on the principles of political and economic reform, but not until then.—Inter State Alliance Echo.

The Alliance and Politics.

It is strange to hear these old croakers over the country and in town say, "Yes the alliance has gone into politics. It has quit the democratic party and gone with this party." Now the question comes up with us, was the alliance not already in politics. If it quit the democratic party it certainly was in politics and just simply changes political party, and the "ringsters" tell you to stick to the democratic party, plainly showing that it is only a certain kind of politics that he objects to you going into.—Alliance Vindicator.

PARTISAN ALLIANCENEN.

Blinded By Partisanship They Cannot Distinguish Between Friends and Enemies.

I notice that W. B. Garoutte comes to the front as "honest," "well," one of his characteristic partisan communications, in which he, as his custom, advises alliance men to become partisans and vote the democratic ticket. Fearing, however, that his partisanship may be considered too intense for a consistent alliance man, he offers as an excuse the astounding and ridiculous statement that the democratic party advocates alliance principles. Ye gods and little fishes. What single demand is there of the (haha) platform that the democratic party indorses or advocates? Where is my chestnut bell? I know that Mr. Garoutte will spring upon me that hoary old chestnut "tariff reform."

I would suggest to Mr. Garoutte that he obtain a lie, covering the last six months of Puck, the illustrated national organ of the democratic party, and see if he can denote one single principle or demand of the alliance that has not, in Puck, been villainously and insultingly denounced and ridiculed. Indeed, he need go no further back than the 1st issue, June 8, to prove the truth of what I say. Let him take that issue, and studying well the vile and insulting cartoons therein contained, give us the exact degree of intensity of the absorbing love entertained by the democratic party for alliance principles. Does he know that the bosses and leaders of the democratic party have entered into a conspiracy with Wall street to stamp out and destroy the Farmers' Alliance? If he does not know this let him study the utterances of such men as Carlisle and Mills, and he will become convinced.

Is he not aware that in several of the southern states the alliance is at this very time engaged in a struggle to the death with this very party we are asked to believe advocates alliance principles. Mr. Garoutte, get out the news from Texas, Mississippi, Kentucky and Tennessee, and he would perhaps be greatly profited by reading the national organ of his order, and the state organs of the alliance in the various southern states.

In this connection the editorial utterances of the Progressive Farmer, President Polk's own paper, are of intense interest. Mr. Garoutte will find in it a short sample of such editorials for Mr. Garoutte to digest.

"The question what will the alliance do with the new party?" is on the lips of the tens of thousands of anxious people to-day. Well, it ought not to take much wisdom to answer that question. The new party has adopted the alliance demands into its platform. Does any man suppose that intelligent alliance men will vote against a party that adopts those demands and in favor of a party that not only fails to adopt but repudiates those demands? The western alliance states already already going into the new party. Will not the necessity of alliance unity force the other alliance states to go into the new party also?

Mr. Garoutte says: "Is it possible any man is so ignorant in politics as to suppose a third party could be organized in a year and a half to vote with either the republican or democratic parties?" It may surprise Mr. G. to learn it, but it is a fact nevertheless, that within the space of sixty or ninety days the new party will be the best organized political party in the United States. It already has in Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas. Moreover, it will be numerically in voting strength, the most powerful party in existence. The Farmers' Alliance and kindred orders will have more than half the votes of the United States. Mr. Garoutte further says: "The only sure way for the success of our demands is to assist the democratic party to stay in the republican party and when that is done we can organize a second party (not a third) and force our demands, if we have any unheeded, and want to go into politics."

What a fine scheme that one of the surest ways to divide the alliance against itself upon partisan lines is to use the very arguments advanced by Mr. Garoutte. Does he suppose that men of principle will form a coalition with this life-long political enemies and unite in the ranks of one of the old parties? It is true that unprincipled men, political bosses and wire-pullers, willing henchmen of the plutocracy, in both old parties, have already formed a coalition in South Carolina, and the indications are that such coalition will become general. Ifly what name will this coalition be known? In those days where, oh where will be the democratic party? True alliance men have no love or affinity for either of the plutocratic twins, but just as soon assist the republican party to kill the democratic party as to assist democrats to destroy the republican party.

"Come you out from among them, oh ye people," saith the Lord. There are but two parties, the people's party and the plutocracy.—George C. Ward, in Alliance Echo.

The "ringsters" and "bosses" fear the coming political storm. They have failed to stay the movement by attacks upon it, and they hope to weaken it by resorting to the cowardly and knavish practice of attacking a man and men with whom they are not acquainted; with whom they have never spoken, and with whom we have no quarrel, and who, so far as their knowledge goes, they are deliberately and malignantly trying to slander and misrepresent.—Progressive Farmer.

PLAIN WORDS.

Alliance men distrust the ability and sincerity of the Old Political Parties.

It is not the province nor the desire of this paper, as the official organ of the alliance in North Carolina, to dictate, or even suggest, the policy of political parties. But it is its desire and it is a duty it owes to ninety thousand alliance men in this state to stand by the principles they advocate and to guard, as best it may, the integrity and good name of this great order.

There are some things which should be said, and they should be said plainly, and said now. The members of the order in this state and throughout the by inch, and at the muzzle of the gun," against the same men and papers which were and are constantly exhorting us to stand by the party? And how stands the matter today? The partisan press and would-be leaders are still arrayed against us, and seek by every means to weaken and defeat us. In the state of Mississippi, no fiercer or more relentless war was ever waged against the republican party than is going on today against the alliance.

In the north and northwest the alliance has had and is having this identical contest with the leaders and papers of the republican party. Well may true, honest, patriotic alliance men stop

THE NEW PARTY.

Georgia Alliance men Looking to the New Party For Relief.

While the southern states were scarcely known in the Cincinnati meeting, the politicians need not think that our people did not look upon the deliberation with an expectant eye. They are loth to desert a party with which they have affiliated so long, and are inclined to give the democracy every opportunity to purify itself of demagogues and enemies of the alliance that seek to control it. But if it fails in this, you are going to see the south as solid and united for the people's party as is the west. That Cincinnati convention country are becoming restive, impatient and are going to demand No local alliance man can look with distrust or antipathy upon any man, or set of men, who voluntarily rally around the banner beneath which they are fighting. Now, will the democratic convention do as much, or will it be led to defeat by such men as Grover Cleveland, the avowed candidate of the money kings of Wall street?

The men who predict that there is no danger of the third party movement finding a foothold in Georgia don't know what they are talking about. We are in daily communication with the farmers, and know that this new party idea has taken deep root in their minds. It is spreading and gaining recruits with great rapidity, and it is going to take hard work and conservatism on the part of the democratic leaders to keep Georgia from going for the new party candidates, if such a ticket is nominated. The people living in the towns and cities do not understand or appreciate the situation. Alliance men don't confide in them, and therefore they have no idea of the recent changes in public sentiment.

With all of his influence and popularity with alliance men Col. Livingston can't stop this stampede into the new party if it once starts.

Now, the partisan organs are to blame for this. While preaching democracy, they have ridiculed and abused the alliance, until the farmers are beginning to believe that the party with which they have so long voted is controlled by their enemies. They have seen their demands made a subject for laughter, and even coalitions formed with republicans to defeat an alliance man fairly nominated for office.—Southern Alliance Farmer.

The old party papers think that the people's party will be a corpse in 1892. They will find it the liveliest corpse they ever monkeyed with.
